-Our run was approximately 1 hour and 31 minutes. -The car was not struck before Boolie's acceptance speech and bumped into it in the blackout. He quickly struck it in the blackout, and we carried on through the scene as usual. The applause going into the scene lasted a little longer to cover the strike.
Scenery: Nothing to report.
Lights: The Go button was bumped in the last scene of Daisy's home, causing the lights to start a blackout mid-scene. Before the blackout completed, we went back a cue, and the lights restored.
Sound: During the nursing home scene, before Boolie exited, there was a loud pop in the theatre. All the sound equipment in the booth went down, including all monitor systems that feed backstage. SM asked Sound Op to bring the faders down, reboot the computer, and then restore the faders when equipment was running as normal. She was able to do this, and the sound system was restored and ran normally through the end of the show. The system went down during a window of no sound cues, so no cues were affected. Please take a look at the computer and equipment to ensure it is something that won't happen again. Thank you!
Costumes: Hoke had a tie hanging half around his neck in the final scene in Daisy's home with Boolie. It was hanging past his sweater, and he took it off as we transitioned into the nursing home scene.
Props: Nothing to report.
FX: Nothing to report.		Misc: Nothing to report.
